CIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY, The Contest for a Radical Change in its Management Ended Yesterday - Diplo-macy in Naming Some of the Directors. The contest for control or, at least, for a radical change in the management of the Northern Pacific Baliroad Company, which has been in progress for several months, was end-al vasterday, though the election does not take place until to-day. The original issue was between several of the large stockholders. under the lead of the Oregon and Transconti-nental Company, which is the largest stockolder, to secure adequate representation, and lesars. Charles B. Wright of Philadelphia and his following, who, it is generally conceded, have personal interest to promote through their connection with the company. Both ides have claimed the election since the transer books closed on Aug. 6.

Wall street and, in fact, everybody will find atment to figure out who has won the day. A combination of circumstances drew Mr. Henry Villard into the contest about two weeks ago, and the exigencies of all of the parties interested have enabled him to practically dictate the ticket which will be elected as a com-promise ticket. Mr. Villard was led to take an sterest in the matter incidental to relieving the Oregon and Transcontinental Company of its recent embarrassement. He found that not only that company but the Northern Pacific Company as well needed a good deal of financiering in the near future, hence ooth had occasion for his services in his new apacity, namely, that of a negotiator of barrains for foreign capital. He controlled some gains for foreign capital. He controlled some Northern Pacific stock, and he got proxies on some more, chiefly, it is understood, from Mr. Brayton Ives, one of the Wright following, who, fearing that he might be left off the Board, helped hir. Villard to what practically gave him the balance of power, upon condition that he (Ives) receive a place upon the Board, As Mr. Villard is always the dominant spirit in any organization he is engaged in managing he could easily afford to pay the price asked. After both sides to the contest had builded each other until the street was tired of hearing from them and they had claimed to hold stock enough in the aggregate to warrant suspicions that there might be an over issue. Mr. Villard practically named the ticket. Ostensibly he cast his lot with the opposition, or Oregon and Transcontinental party, as that was the only way in which he could bring a new element into the Board, and one that should distinctively consider him its leader.

position, or Oregon and Transcontinental party, as that was the only way in which he could bring a new element into the Board, and one that should distinctively consider him its leader.

That Mr. Villard thus brings some important allies into the Northern Pacific Board no one will be likely to question. He heads a new delegation of five, the others being Messra. John B. Trevor. Colgate Hoyt, who is understood to represent more especially the Rockefeller interest in the property, and President Charles I. Colby and Vice-President Edwin H. Abbot of the Wisconsin Central Bailroad Company, and or the Mr. Abbot of the Wisconsin Central Bailroad Company. All of them are largely interested in the Oregon and Transcontinental Company, and represent it as well as other holders. It was determined that the appearance of President Elijah Smith on the Northern Pacific Board was inexpedient on account of the many important negotiations that are now likely to be conducted between that company and also the Oregon Bailway and Navigation Company. Of which he is President, and the Northern Pacific Company. That no question may be raised as jo the validity of any official action he may have to take in these matters, it was considered wise that he should rotain a distinctive position at the head of the two companies named. The completion of the remainder of the Board will doubtless surprise Wall street more than the introduction of the new element, for Mr. Villard elected to retain in the Board Mr. C. B. Wright and all of his following. The reason for Mr. Ives's retention has already been noted. In the cases of Mr. Wright and John A. Brookman it is understood that Mr. Villard was afraid to drop them for fear they would drop their large holdings of stock upon the market, and that the effect of such heavy sales might interfere with his plans for financiering the concerns of which he was once the head. Mr. Villard once removed Mr. Wright from the Northern Pacific Board, and he is doubtless capable of coping with him now should the emerg influence, so that that faction in the new Board may be regarded as five strong, or equal in number to the new representation.

The retiring directors are James C. Fargo, Johnston Livingston, John H. Hall, J. L. Stackpole, and John C. Bullitt. It was arranged yesterday that each side should vote its own proxies to-day, so that about the only interest now left in the election is to see what is the actual strength of both parties. The present management claims to be able to vote upon 440,000 shares, and the opposition party upon something more than 330,000 shares. The total outstanding is about $70,000 shares. The total outstanding is about $70,000 shares. The financiering which Mr. Villard will undertake for the company will be the funding of the $4.600,000 of dividend bonds which were issued some five years ago under his management, and which mature on Jan. 1. 1888. He will also take a hand in straightening out the complicated accounts which helf between the Northern Pacific and the Oregon and Transcontinental Companies. These have been a source of contention between the two companies ever since Mr. Villard retired. The Oregon and Transcontinental claims over $3,000,000 from the Northern Pacific, and the latter has a counter claim for about $600,000. In order to accept the directorship Mr. Villard has secured a modification of his contract with the Dehsche Bank of Berlin, which prohibited him from accepting any post in a corporation. The most tangible evidence of the fight now ended is found in the prices of the securities of the several company, to strengthen itself in the fight, increased its holdings of Northern Pacific stock by about 65,000 shares. As soon as the Wright faction discovered this it began a guerrilla warriare upon the Oregon and Transcontinental Company to strengthen itself in the fight, increased its holdings of Northern Pacific stock in consequence of their own company. While they failed to force the Oregon and Transcontinental Company to its holdings. To do this they had to depress the shar

Flags fluttered gayly over old Fleetwood Park yesterday. It was the opening day of the September trotting meeting of the New York Driving Club, and fully 1,500 turfmen from all over the country were present. The track was in the finest condition, owing to the recent rain, both for safety and speed The first trot created much excitement. Gov. Hill was a strong favorite over the field, Skylight Pilot being taken for second choice. The result was a Waterloo to the knowing ones, as Jessie, an outsider, won three heats in succes-sion—the fourth, fifth, and sixth. The second sion—the fourth, fifth, and sixth. The second trot was devoid of special interest, as the favorite, the bay gelding Captain, won easily in three straight heats.

At 2 P. M. precisely the judges of the day, Mesers. David Bonner, J. B. Houston, and J. B. Smith, rang the bell for the horses to appear for the first event, the 2:21 class. It had six starfers, Gov. Hill drew the pole, and Jessle outside position. In the betting Gov. Hill was a strong favorite, selling for $50: Skylight Plick $35: Alroy. $11: field $13.

AMUSEMENTS.

Mr. Louis James and Miss Marie Wainwright are on a tour with a company above the common average in quality, and are present-ing dramas which appeal to educated taste. "Ingomar," "Virginius," and "Hamlet" are in their present week's round at the Grand Opera House, and last evening they appeared in a more unusual play, Mr. W. S. Gilbert's Gretchen." This version of the story of Faust, Marguerite, and Mephistopheles, with its devilish logic and humorous theology, had of late years been used in America only by Miss Fortescue, and then very weakly. A large and fine audience gathered in expectation of a deeply sardonic Mephisto by Mr. James and a touchingly pathetic Greichen by Miss Wainwright. The conscientious intelligence and trained ability of these two artists had been well enough known to be depended on by frequenters of the theatres. There was no disappointment. Mr. James locked and spoke the character of Mephisto without missing a point of Gilbert's somewhat sacrilegious with nor yet making it repulsive by too heavy emphasia. It was an interpretation at once keen and powerful. Miss Wainwright was a particularly sweet and gentle Greichen a little monotonous, but hardly tiresome, and never uncertain or much at fault in her method of expression. The play abounds too much in excellent language for a merely dramatic purpose, the action being too slow; and last evening the scenery was so bad that the personages could not be figures in attractive picture; but the venture was nevertheless an artistic success.

MURDERER MCCARE CAPTURED.

In Hiding for Pive Months in the Back woods Near Honcedale, Pa. HONESDALE, Pa., Sept. 14. - Murderer James P. McCabe, who escaped from the jail here on May 19 last, eight days before the date fixed for his hanging, is again lodged in his old cell in the prison, having been captured at daylight yesterday morning in the McClure settlement, a remote hamlet in the northern part of the county. It has been known for some tlement, a remote hamlet in the northern part of the county. It has been known for some time that the murderer was in hiding among his relatives and friends in the backwoods near his old home, and Sheriff Medland and a posse have been hot upon his trail for two weeks nast.

On Monday night the Sheriff heard that McCabe had been seen in the McClure neighborhood, and he surrounded the settlement before daylight next morning with a force of forty well-armed men. who began a search of the three or four houses and barns that make up the hamlet. Two of the searchers discovered McCabe in Michael Cluny's hayloft, and promptly covered him with their pistols. The fugitive quietly submitted, saying that he had been surpised while asleep. A loaded pistol was found in his pocket.

The murderer, who was a large, fine-looking young man of 200 pounds weight at the time of his escape, is now much emselated, and his worn and pinched features and long matted hair and beard greatly change his appearance. He positively refuses to disclose the names of the parties who assisted him in breaking jall, or of the friends who have since sheltered and concealed him. He still protests his innocence of the murder of Michael Reilly, of which crime he stands convicted. The date of his hanging, as fixed by Gov. Beaver's last respite, is Oct. 6. The Sheriff has again set the death watch on him.

Whiskey Men's Views on Prohibition. CINCINNATI, Sept. 14.-The National Distil-

CINCINNATI, Sept. 14.—The National Distillers' Protective Association finished its labors to-day, and was banqueted by the local members to-night. It was resolved to make a collection of $7.500 immediately from the wholesale dealers, and an equal sum from the distillers for immediate use in Teunessee. The resolutions adopted say:

While we favor temperance we are opposed to probibition, general or local whether south to be accountiable by direct statute or by exorbitant and procerpitive license, and we are opposed to it because we believe it to be wrang in principle, impossible of enforcement, and promotive of the werst forms of decait and hypocripive we favor imposing a reasonable license that will not encourage monopoly or amount to prohibition, and we hold that the granting of tax permits or licenses should be based updated proof the same of the grantes, and publicate sum of money; and, when practicable under the Constitutions of the various states, we advocate the forfeiture of the tax permits or license as a condition inseparable from the keeping of law-breaking or disorderly premises.

RACELAND, FROM THE WEST,

MAKING A SHOW OF THE FIELD IN THE GREAT EASTERN HANDICAP. The Best Two-year-old Performance of the Senson-Cyclops, Plorence M., and Jeunic B. Hend the Other Fleids at Sheepshend. The chief attraction for racegoers at Sheepshead Bay yesterday was the Great East-ern Handicap for two-year-olds, at three-quarters of a mile, worth about $7,000 to the win-ner. Sixteen from the 181 nominated appeared at the post and were sent away in snug shape at the first attempt. Hidden in the ruck dur-ing the first quarter mile of the race was the long-striding gelding Raceland, from the West, that was beaten in the Flatbush Stakes last Saturday by Sir Dixon, Benedictine, and King-fish. In the second quarter dusky Hamilton moved the gelding out of the ruck until he moved the gesting out of the ruck until he came into full view at the head of the homestretch, an open length ahead of the field. Coming on through the mud, he left the others behind in the same way that Tremont did when coming up the hill in Jerome Park in his first race for the Juvenile Stakes. And like Tremont, Raceland won in the easiest way by six open lengths. The time was 1:15%. This performance through the mud, with the top weight, makes it look as though the geiding is the best two-year-old of the year, although he has run in and out like the others.

Fair fields started in all the races except the handicap, a mile and three furlongs, which was a walkover for Molile McCarthy's Last. Garrison won the first race on his colt Cyclops by a neck, Florence M. won the mile handicap by two lengths, Phil Lee won the selling race at a mile and a guarter by five lengths, and McLaughlin landed Jennie B, winner of the race on the grass by half a length. The score between the rival jockeys now stands: Garrison, 77; McLaughlin, 76.

Following are the summaries: came into full view at the head of the

The Correct Position for Waltzing. At the session of the Dancing Masters' Con-At the seasion of the Dancing Masters' Convention, held yesterday afternoon, the correct position for waltering was defined. It was decided that the gentleman should hold the lady with his right forearm, placing his hand flat against the back. No part of his arm above the elbow should come in contact with her body. The lady's left hand should rest upon the gentleman's arm about four inches from the shoulder. Her right arm should be held out perfectly straight at an angle of about 45 degrees from the body. Her right hand should rest in the gentleman's left pain with the knuckles uppermost. It is necessary that the lady shall not bend her right elbow, otherwise they will fall to give the mutual support which is a requisite of good dancing.

GRAIN MEN IN BAD TEMPER.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE CHICAGO He is Said to Have Called the Produce Exchange a Bucket Shop and a Dependent of the Chicago Board-A Petition.

War has been declared by the members of the Produce Exchange, and particularly by the grain brokers, upon President Wright of the Board of Trade. Mr. Wright is reported to have spoken of the Produce Ex-change as a bucket shop, and to have said that it was dependent for its quotations and life upon the Chicago Board of Trade. The offensive remarks were printed yesterday morning. The Produce Exchange grain men have been endeavoring to interest Chicago grain men in a movement to establish a daily continuous grain session. For years the sessions on the Produce Exchange have been interrupted from 24 till 3 o'clock in the afternoon, while the Chicago grain men had an intermission from 1% to 2 o'clock, Chicago time, Grain men here have contended that the interruption broke the current of speculation and led to complications that a continuous session would obviate. A petition asking the concurrence of the Chicago men was forwarded to the magnates of the Board of Trade, and referring to the petition President Wright is reported to have said:

ther should like to have them when it best suits their convenience to use them.

At first the grain men were inclined to believe that Mr. Wright had been misquoted. The hundred private telegraph wires between the Chicago Board and the Produce Exchange were burdened all the morning with messages of inquiry from here. All the answer that could be got up to noon was messages regretting that any such language had been used by President Wright. For themselves, the Chicago boys flooded the wheat pit on the Exchange with messages declaring that the New York boys were their brothers, and truly beloved as such. This was heartily appreciated so far as it, went, but it was decided to formally ask Mr. Wright for an explanation. This was done by C. D. Freeman, representing Henry Clows & Co. President Wright sent this reply:

Ido not know what language has been attributed to ms. Whatever I said, I have not misrepresented the Produce Exchange.

me. Whatever I said, I have not misrepresented the Produce Exchange.

This was considered equivocal, and a howl of derision went up. His remarks, as printed, were telegraphed to him, and the brokers waited until the last moments of the session for a reply. None came, and it was decided to demonstrate their secorn of the Chicago upstart by hanging and burning him in efflay.

The white-haired men of the Exchange did not participate in the ceremonies. The young bloods were the executioners. Dan Dixon, Emmet Dixon, Louis Mills, Prince Claggett, Al Worth, Waiter Wright, Fred Goldamith, Ben Cogger. George Green, Jimmy Marshall, and Bob Cook fixed up a paper man, labelled it "President Wright," rigged a gallows, and the effigy, soon swaying before a thousand brokers, was greeted with hots and catcalls. It was then lowered and lighted. It was wrapped so tightly that a blaze was prevented, but the thick smoke curling upward overhead was accepted as sufficient.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 14. The movement of prices upon the Stock Exchange to-day was in the direction of lower figures. Whatever tendency there may have been in the market toward improvement was checked promptly at the opening by liberal sales of what was generally believed to be long stock. The heaviest selling, and that which proved the most effective, was in Western Union. Reading came next in point of sctivity, and equalled it in the extent of its decline. The operations of the Treasury De-partment in purchasing a large amount of bonds had little or no effect. There was a cessation of the selling movement during the middle of the day, but no rally worthy of the Wall street is beginning to question whether it has profited very much by the efforts of the Government to retire its obligations. The street clamored as loudly as any one for some such course as the Administration is now pursuing, and the result is that Government bonds have been depreciated over 2 % cent. since the Treasury began to buy them, and all other securities have suffered in proportion; and although the Treasury has paid out on account of bonds redeemed and interest anticipated something over $12,000,000 within the last thirty days. Wall street seems to have no more money than it had when the Treasury programme was announced. Some people are questioning whether the street would not have fared better had it gone about its business independent of an expectation of relief from the Treasury Department and paid % or % % cent, a day for the use of what money it needed, depending upon those rates to attract funds to this centre. However advantageous the Treasury operations may prove to the Government and to the general business of the country, they have not proved a boon to Wall street, and the street is just beginning to appreciate this fact.

Another factor that has militated against the market has been the bitter contest for the control of the Northern Pacific Ballroad Company. This contest was concluded this afternoon, but the result is not likely to appeal to the confidence of the public. No contest was ever more ignominiously ended, and though the ticket that will be elected to-morrow is spoken of as a compromise ticket, and is presumed to harmonize all interests, it is difficult to see how the company or any of the other interests; represented are to be especially benefited by it. In the first place, the people whom both the opposition and the better element in the present management of the Northern Pacific Company consider undesirable are retained in the Board, and it is difficult to discover in the compromise any guarantee of a settlement of the dissoutes that are injuring all of the larger railroad corporations in the Pacific Northwest. About all that has been accomplished by this struggle is a frightful depreciation in the securities of all of the companies interested, as well as the impairment of their credit.

The outcome of this matter is eimply another influence toward lessoning the little confidence that the public may have left in Wall street and its wares, So far as to-day's market is concerned, it simply reflected this lack of confidence, which results in a conspicuous absonce of buyers. It is a peculiarity of the street that when it lacks customers it does nothing to attract them. On the contrary, it seems to consider its duty to be to disparage patronage. It is difficult to appreciate philanthropy of this sort, yet it exists. If any one doubts it he has but to read the published circulate daily.

London was very little of a factor to-day, but seemed to have ceased its selling. The best informed foreign bankers here are of the opinion that the Bank of England rate of discount will not be advanced to-morrow, since the advance of I cent per pound in the rate for sterling precludes shipments of gold to this country for the moment. In addition, the Treasury disbursements on account of to-day's purchases of bonds will tend to have a reason that the Bank of England rate of discount will not be advanced to-morrow, since the advance of I cent per pound in the

The Western Union Telegraph Company declared to-day the quarterly dividend of one per cent., payable Oct. 15, recommended vesterday by the Executive Committee. The statement submitted to the directors shows net earnings for the quarter of $1.400,000, of which the fixed charges require $142,500 and the dividend now declared $812,000, leaving $447,500 to be added to the surplus, which is thereby increased to $7.447,685. The Secretary of the Treasury accepted $4,199,000 at 107,98 and 108,25. Of the bonds purchased $550,000 were purchased from institutions in Rhode Island and over $3,500,000 from bankers in this city.

The proceeds of the sale have been invested in about $950,000 of the Richmond Terminal, and these have been retired and cancelled. About one-half of the bonds retired were held by the Richmond and Danville Company, which still holds $1,000,000 of them, and the remainder were bought in the open market. The price paid for the Danville bonds was 90. The operation reduces the amount of Terminal bonds about 10 # cent., leaving $7,500,000 outstanding, and it reduces the fixed charges of the Terminal Company nearly $60,000 a year.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company declared to-day its regular half yearly dividends of 2½ # cent. upon its common stock and 3½ # cent. upon the preferred, payable Oct. 14.

Robert Brakely's Trial for Wife Murder WATERBURY, Sept. 14.—The trial of Robert Drakely, who shot his six weeks' bride through the heart in Waterbury, Conn., on Aug. 10, 1883, has begun at Litchfield in the room where the Rev. Dr. Beecher use Litchfield in the room where the Rev. Dr. Beecher used to conduct divine service. Drakely's home is in Baittimore, but he comes of one of Connecticut's most prominent families, and is the heir to a large estate. He had been practising for weeks with a revolver before he killed his wife. She was a woman of the lower class, but had been adopted by a well-known family, and had received a large bequest from Sarah Orton, a name also very familiar in this State. The cause of the trouble between Drakely and his wife was a two-par-old child which Mrs. Drakely said she was caring for for a New York man. On the night in question Drakely bit the child's cheek, and the mother resented it, whereopen, in a drunken fremy, he sho her. He has been in Litchmed Jail ever since. He pleads not guilty.
